

Title: Have HF's been pumping the whole market since 2020 to fund shorting GME?

Now we know that HF's are shorting the hell out of meme stocks and taking lots of premiums. Nothing new here.

But when I look at other tickers, especially in the tech sector, you see steady climbs up until the start of 2020. The corona dip entered and as of that point, huge spikes up until the end of last year when a lot of tickers got beaten down. Look for instance to Shop or tradedesk but there are A LOT of similar patterns to be found. Huge pumps and hype and now huge dumps.

Who are the instances that made a lot of money with those pumps? Are that the HF's to fill their war chest to keep attacking our beloved stonk?

The gains made in the past two years are enormous (and of course taken from the wallets of the common people).

P.s I secretly love Ryan Cohen.
