It's a bit concerning that some apes who will wager their lives that the DD is ALL correct have the same level of confidence about what impact/effect the stock dividend split will have, how it will work, and what the result will be.

And I've seen a TON of different ideas that folks are claiming are correct!

Honestly, it's unsettling. If there are 10 different theories, at least 9 will be wrong.

Hell, LAUER wasn't even sure!

Our whole entire GameStop thesis has been based on hypotheses that we are CERTAIN will be correct, but who among us can prove it?

Oh well.

Too late to turn back now, anyway.

Lambos or food stamps.
