PLEASE CONSIDER TAKING THE NEXT STEPS AS OPPOSED TO DOING NOTHING AND EFFECTIVELY EXCUSING THE BEHAVIOR.

If you have evidence of GME fuckery today, and you aren't submitting it to SEC, DoJ, regulators, and your congressional reps, then consider that you might be excusing these guys just as much as the regulators are.

Some apes have screenshots they took as they watched charts that showed no one was selling, notifications they received eluding to price action that shouldn't exist, etc. I'm not saying it's fair, but it now falls upon you to get the info to the right hands.

The rest of us can't say, "we got these notifications", when we didn't get them. We can't say, "we took these screenshots and let me explain the context", when we didn't take them. It's not fair that you get stuck with the chore of jumping the hurdles to report, but that's what we've got. It's what you can do.

You need help finding the right phone numbers, email addresses, and online forms? Let me know. It's what I can do.
