To be honest I wasn't planning on making a part two, but this stuff runs so deep and a couple of people asked me to make another one, so here we are.

If you haven't seen part one, go here: https://www.reddit.com/r/GME/comments/tozbem/the_final_boss_the_world_economic_forum_bcg/

February 18, 2021 (the same day as DfV's testimony) Bill Gates compares GameStop frenzy to gambling.

NOTE: GO TO 1:36 - who tf holds a cup like that?

Man, this is wild if you watch this and look out for how many times Gates uses these terms.

Bill Gates Interview transcribed \[notice the amount of times Gates' uses the words "uh" and "you know." \]

Sorkin: "We also talked about the soap opera that's going to take over today, which is GameStop and I asked him as somebody who's been watching people come together online for a long time whether he thinks this recent social media enabled trading phenomenon is a transformation."

Gates: "Well people enjoy gambling uh and you know sadly uh you know it's a zero-sum game uh you know the idea that you drive a valuation way way beyond what uh is rational it's hard to see that societally is a good use of time and you know the people who get in it early get a windfall the people getting laid feel like suckers but you know how the disclosure rules should work now that you have you know Reddit forums where people have you know a reason to kind of push something and uh get out at those high prices you know the SEC has got to look at this because uh you know we don't think of the stock market as uh just performing a casino-like role we have you know restrictions on gambling activities uh you know so how do you take social media and uh you know touting stocks you know. This reminds us of the 1930s to some degree."

Sorkin: "One of the things that's so fascinating to me is it reminds me of the 1930s too. But it almost upends so many of the ideas that I had about investor protection because one of the things that that this almost social and media enabled group of people are saying is we actually don't want your protection um and in fact not only do we not want your protection we believe that your protection is actually protecting the other side it's protecting the establishment it's protecting the hedge funds and the like do you think there's been a reversal here?"

Gates: "Well I think you know if the general public uh investor is uh pitted against the hedge funds over time the hedge funds uh will come out ahead you know the fact that wild rumors uh cause people who can't look at the sanity of the valuation uh to lose money you know I'd really look at that individual investor uh I you know that that's what the SEC is there to protect and uh you know I'm sure there'll be lots of stories of people who got caught up in the frenzy uh which really served no societal purpose."

Who else is linked to BCG? None other than the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation.

We know BCG is partnered with the WEF, looky here:

Everything is connected to the WEF.

There is more to the story here. Wrinkle brains unite, keep digging.

Bill Gates said, "Well I think you know if the general public uh investor is uh pitted against the hedge funds over time the hedge funds uh will come out ahead..."

...IDK Mr. Gates, looks like the hedge funds are on their last leg...
