GameStop has been wronged again. The dividend payment they way we've been reading it. I can't post on superstonk. Hear this out and maybe someone can get the info to them over there for discussion.

IEP, Icahn Enterprises pays out quarterly dividends to the tune of $8/share a year. I know what you're saying "that's unbelievable and unsustainable!!!" On the contrary, it's totally sustainable because uncle Carl owns 90% of the outstanding shares. The quarterly dividend is not paid in cash but shares and you don't see them dividing the share price. You get additional shares which is equal to the share price average on the X date at a rate of $2/share a quarter.

The GameStop dividend was paid wrong in my opinion.
