Hi all, I'm an XX holder. With the news today and recently I'm concerned about missing the big event in terms of the steps that need to be taken to sell. I got scared the other day when the notifications were posted about GME holders being in the money.

I'm unable to monitor the market hour by hour, so I'm wondering if anyone would mind explaining how to setup your account to sell at $xxx, xxx price, if that's necessary.

Maybe it's not. I don't quite understand if this will be an hour long event, days, weeks or what. I just don't want to miss out.

I've been buying onsies, twosies at a time for over a year now. Don't want to miss out because of my ignorance!

Thanks for any insight and feel free to correct any erroneous assumptions I've made in my post.
