Hello, last year I bought call options on GME, I made a huge profit and bought shares with all the money I had after selling my calls, I have been holding those shares with you guys for over a year now. Going to DRS soon.

I was wondering if I have to pay taxes on my options profit even if I reinvested all my money on the stock of that same company.

I am kind of having a panic attack right now because the taxes are due today and the website that calculates the taxes is saying that I have to pay a lot of money, which is around half of what I have invested... I really don't want to sell my shares, any information is appreciated, thanks.
