

Title: I'm getting a lil nervous.

Author: holddodoor

Created 2021-08-03 04:43:20 UTC

Permalink: /r/Autisticats/comments/oww3rw/im_getting_a_lil_nervous/

Url: https://www.reddit.com/r/Autisticats/comments/oww3rw/im_getting_a_lil_nervous/

Is_self: True

Body:

Hear me out. I'm seeing Amazon interviews with the topic being about gaming. I just saw an Amazon commercial that talks about "Cleopatra was the most powerful queen in Egypt, but nobody likes a diva," as she is watching an iPad the announcer states that she learned this from watching a video on Amazon Prime that even kings can give back. Cut to her slaves riding around in Dune buggies having a great time.

Sound like someone wants to be a charitable king?

Also, talks of Stevie getting involved with activision and blizzard.

They are listening, and they aren't going to give up.

If they can dilute the stock market w/ shares, they can dilute the physical market with gaming tech companies. They are trying to make it so GameStop is a tiny blip on the radar of tech giants to shop from for anything gaming.

If I had all the money in the world and it's being threatened by rEtARdS in their underwear, I think spending money on such ventures would be a clear path versus losing it all.

I could be way off here, but my senses are tingling that these guys are up to some shit.

Does buy and hold stay relevant if GME is just another company that can deliver same day games/ game related product in a sea of other companies that can do the same?

That's all. Just a concerned citizen hoping we can actually beat the biggest mf King Kong dildos in the world. You know the guys who have all the money and the power and know how to use it.

Please blast my puny brain with knowledge.