The reality is that now matter how good the earnings results are today the media will make it out to be a miss and publish all kinds of fud to keep people from buying. Unless GME announces some kind of an event that drives a share recall / count we are not likely to see anything but more downward pressure as the shorts collaborate with the media again to try and scare people into selling.

But I'm an not selling until we reach **the moon! ■■■**
