Hi! This is Gabe over at your investment company. All is well! Thanks for asking! Just wanted to let you and all of our investors know that we plan to use the money you've all entrusted to me to bankrupt a company that sells video games. GameStop exactly! That's the one! Yeah, we don't play video games so we believe that nobody will continue to play them in the future... what's that? Oh yes, we can do that for sure! With the money you all have provided, we should have enough capital to crush that company and make about 12,000 college kids lose their jobs. Haha. Yeah that sucks but so do video games! We hate them and we don't let our children play them either so this is definitely a solid plan. So yeah, actually most of the money you give us goes to bankrupting businesses we think suck. No actually, we don't like investing in companies to help them, there's no money in that. Not like this. And we have some pretty heavy players on our team so it's a sure thing ■

Alright then, so we have your approval? We already have your money so careful how you answer...
