Hey guys I've been up all night tossing and turning because of a subreddit I found talking about how RH decided to shadow trade with random users accounts, even deactivated ones.

You know what to do.

Dig, dig deep and log into that wretched wasteland you left. Find your final statements for November and POUR over every column until we have our answers.

Why would RH trade GME and other select stocks so close to the run up?

Why risk leaving a breadcrumb trail back to their house?

So many questions it seems like when we answer one, five more pop up.

Please report here or DM me. I logged into my RH account and they said I was suspended because they couldn't verify my identity so no statements available.

I already put a ticket into support, I expect to never hear back.
