Recently I have personally felt extremely good with GME and it appears the community has as well. To start, RC and his confidence has really seemed to skyrocket. He has been calling out short sellers and BCG like never before. On top of that he has put his money where his mouth is and bought more shares. Larry cheng and others have as well. The stock split + the incoming market place launch this year also has my tits competing with Mount Everest. The baby in the womb leads many others including myself to believe the announcement is due soon. I really feel like shorts are getting closed in on by us. DRSing our shares, the stock split, and the market place has to have shorts scared. It can't help when RC is taunting them as well. Cheers ■

Edit: not to mention him calling out Ken griffin with the meme he liked. First time doing that I believe.
