and just to confirm, this transaction will complete without issue, correct?

Glad I could assist with the DRS request here today. I hope you have a great rest of the day and thank you for choosing Fidelity Investments!

At this point in time it shows as pending and should be completed at normal.

I have been reading posts where some fidelity agents are saying the transaction may be cancelled due to the "upcoming stock split" which seems shady considering that won't occur for 2 weeks and a DRS transfer typically takes 72 business hours MAX.

I know, under your current situation, it makes sense to hold onto the shares. But I can help you with the direct registration process. We can definitely get you taken care of today.

Yes, I would like to DRS 8 GME shares please

I am happy to help you with your request. This process should only take about 5 minutes here today. Making the decision to directly register these shares will result in your shares no longer being held at Fidelity. Please confirm that you are comfortable with this decision by responding "yes," or let me know what questions you have.

In your account [REDACTED] GME to the transfer agent. Fidelity does not charge a fee for a transfer. However, a fee may be charged by the transfer agent. Once the DRS transaction is processed, the shares will no longer be in your Fidelity account, they will no longer be accessible to you on Fidelity.com, and you will not be able to speak to a Fidelity associate about them. This transaction cannot be cancelled or reversed. It typically takes 3-5 business days for your shares to show at the transfer agent. Going forward, you will need to contact the transfer agent for any information or transaction(s) involving your shares, and you are subject to any fees assessed by the transfer agent. Keep in mind, a transfer agent is not a brokerage firm, and your experience may be different. Here is your transaction number for your records if you would like: [REDACTED]

awesome thank you
