

Title: Will GME Shareholders Who Own Shorted Stocks Take Part in the Stock Split Dividend?

Author: FinishApprehensive18

Created 2022-07-07 03:32:24 UTC

Permalink: /r/DDintoGME/comments/vt8u60/will_gme_shareholders_who_own_shorted_stocks_take/

Url: https://www.reddit.com/r/DDintoGME/comments/vt8u60/will_gme_shareholders_who_own_shorted_stocks_take/

How I take this is, if you have one of those "extra", duplicated shares from a short seller, you will not get a stock dividend. The original lender will. I am sure I am mistaken on this.

How will this really play out?

Are Investors Short a Dividend-Paying Stock Entitled to the Dividend?

<https://www.investopedia.com/ask/answers/042215/if-investor-short-dividendpaying-stock-record-date-are-they-entitled-dividend.asp>

"Investors short a stock are never entitled to its dividends, and that includes those short a stock on its dividend record date. Rather, short-sellers owe any declared dividend payments to the shares' lenders."