GameStop.

I remember when I used to think I was invincible

I remember when I used to think I wasn't delusional

I remember when I used to think holding was critical

I remember when I used to think we'd all be apes at each others funerals

I remember when I used to think my 200 shares would do it all

I remember when I used to think highly about my shares and stand tall

I remember when I used to think we'd never fall

But after all the thinking. I realize it's only me I can blame this on after all

So now I'll take my remains and walk away down the hall
