Not trying to post FUD but just trying to understand the concept more.

Given I am a musician of any kind - giving away a sound as NFT means I'm giving up all my rights and transfer them to the new owner. Did I understand that correctly?

So basically - just to understand the concept right - the moment someone buys that soundclip he/she is allowed to commercially exploit it without my approval?

Let's say someone grabs my sample from the GME marketplace and uses it as soundtrack in a YouTube vid I morally do not condone I am not able to object, am I right?
