This would create major, major headaches throughout the year.

DFV was right: **We are not locked in here with them. They are locked in here with us.****

I wrote a post which unfortunately got deleted for wrong reasons, I hope it gets undeleted, where I elaborate on that thesis.

Somebody pointed out that ATM puts are being used to suppress the price, this is expensive and only works temporary.

I expect this to go on over year's end so that they can minimize short losses on their balance sheets.
