Trying to drs my gme shares from fudelity. but they are saying and I quote. The shares aren't showing up in the sytem due to it being in margin. I have margin available on that account but have never actually used it. The shares that I bought have been cleared for months. First question can they lend my shares since I have margin available even if I have never used it. 2. Can they not allow me to drs if I have margin available on the account even it's not being used?
