The Maxine Waters report had me depressed but I'm back to being bullish. I believe MOA$$ is inevitable. Ryan Cohen knows after Q3 earnings from the NFT market place, the split dividend might be our Hail Mary.

From what I have been lead to believe if the DTCC rejects or refuses to help with the split dividend that we could go somewhere else?

I don't know all of the DD.

My big fear was DTCC says no and we end up similar to Ripple in court with the government because no one will help us.

Where would we go if the DTCC says no, I'm aware that not all hope is lost if they say no.

Where would the split dividend be issued if they say no?

I am really sorry if I am getting this wrong, I am asking because I want to make sure if I get it right.

Also I hope it's issued on a blockchain, I think that's the only way we get these A holes once and for all.

We are going to win, fellow apes. Don't let your personal problems wether they are mental health or financial get in your way.

We went through Hell for the MOA$$.
