You don't want him to announce the growing pile of GME shares that are locked up. It's better he doesn't announce it, let it build and then only announce it when it's extremely high and then they will suddenly panic.

Announcing drips and drabs won't create the same meteoric event.

Hopefully he doesn't mention it, if he doesn't, this is why.

Plus I suspect he has or is already DRSing his own shares which will substantially increase the figure, hopefully he doesn't mention this either
