I don't own any digital currencies, etc. I still buy Nintendo switch games on cartridges so that when I'm done with them, I can sell them on eBay or wherever. My hope for nfts has always been as a way to sell a digital object like a video games to a third party. Maaaaybe there is a future where I buy a video game object, like a new hat for a video game character, and then have a way to resell it in the future, but I don't really care about that as much as selling the whole digital game. Keeping my fingers crossed.
