Small caps rallied all day, as well as the other indices. I believe this was truly due to the war looking like it will cool down and it would makes sense that this caused all the US indices to rally.

This might of made shorting GME through the ETFS impossible today. I was expecting the normal small cap dump towards the end of the day, it didnt happen. This has happened on most large rallies for the last year, something changed with the correlation between our stocks EOD dumps and the ETF tools used for this.

\*\* update

Yup, something changed with the xrt correlation too.

It traded sideways the entire day and yes, XRT is off REG Sho
