OK Apes, the time has come. Yes, Buy when you can, HODL and DRS, but maybe this battle plan just simply isnt enough. Todays massive dip has me furious and I feel we may be able to do more than idly wait for authorities to do anything of integrity to our market and purpose of transparency while accumulating more shares that ultimately have no value until the law is upheld. We've tried calling out GG and he pusses out & goes silent. We've hoped beyond hope that the DTCC might actually do their f'n job only to be expectedly disappointed. Here we are waiting for the DOJ to actually do ANYTHING and who knows, maybe they will, but its doubtful. So maybe we start calling in some back up. Anybody know this guy? His name is Gregory Coleman. In case you are unaware, he is the real life actual FBI agent who took down Jordan Belfort in the Wolf Of Wallstreet saga (character name Patrick Denham; portrayed by actor Kyle Chandler) He is retired from the FBI now, but currently still works as a public speaker and has contact info that is relatively easy to find online. What if, just what if, he may be willing to dip his toes back into the investigative water as a PI? Maybe he's aware of our current market situation. Maybe hes aware of GME specifically. Maybe, maybe maybe maybe, he might take an active interest in bringing the corruption of Wallstreet to the light one, more, time. I might contact him this weekend; just to see if I get any kind of response... just to see if he might bite and be willing to talk about how we might better move forward. Would love to know what you other apes might think about this idea; if anything just to help me temper my frustrations and thoughts of getting more actively involved. Fuk hedgies... but can we fuk 'em harder? Cant wait to hear what yall have to say.
