I hope this isn't breaking any rules of the subs, I've never made a post here. I've left a few comments here and there, mostly out of frustration of not being able to read between the lines of the cryptic posts. Everyone I've ever talked to on this sub has been incredibly kind and respectful thought, and I just wanted to say I appreciate the community. We live in weird, extraordinary times right now.

There's that old saying that goes "There are decades where nothing happens; and there are weeks where decades happen." These past couple years feel like a decade and something in me tells me that there's gonna be a few more decades happen within the next few years. Whoever you are, wherever you are, just know you aren't alone. There's a narrative where there's so much hate in this world, but I don't buy into that much. Most of every interaction I've ever had on this sub and in the world has been a positive one, and I believe there's more love than we could imagine out there. Even ratio, as frustrating and as mysterious as that person is, I'm sure is spreading positive vibes out in the world. I just hope everyone is doing okay, and is finding the path they were meant to go on in this world. I'm blessed and I hope all of you are too. If you are blessed, just remember to help the people struggling in your life. If you're struggling, remember to reach out and ask for help, it's okay to do so. As for me, I'm grinding day in and day out, holding something that's extremely valuable to me, and just wanting to send out love to all of y'all reminding you you're not alone.
