

Title: Theater and GME Comparison

Author: random_user_number_5

Created 2022-02-19 23:54:30 UTC

Permalink: /r/DDintoGME/comments/swng1l/theater_and_gme_comparison/

Url: https://www.reddit.com/r/DDintoGME/comments/swng1l/theater\_and\_gme\_comparison/

Good Evening,

The document that compares Theater/Movie stock and Gamestop has been finished. This document is highly sourced and is 100 pages not including the cover sheet. I would recommend having some time set aside to read this document fully. I appreciate any and all corrections that someone finds and if something is found to be misinformation that is uncovered please cite your sources and provide them to me so that I can fix the DD. Thank you and enjoy.

<https://online.fliphtml5.com/lfrdz/seeu/>

TL;DR - Will probably be available in a few days but there is a pros and cons list that can be found toward the end of the document which does fairly well to summarize the 100 pages that have been posted.

Feel free to send this to anyone you would like to read it.

I have added the TL;DR that is mentioned above below:

VI. Potential Cons:

\- Now, we're not above realizing that we could be wrong, but this document is to lay out points from fundamentals to MSM to squeeze metrics. NONE OF THIS IS FINANCIAL ADVICE.

\- Diversity – Some would say it is not good to have all your eggs in one basket and this point should be mentioned.

\- Both stocks do not have insane amounts of short interest as suggested by certain individuals, and may rely solely on fundamentals or external factors (NFT Dividend, etc) to drive price action and true price discovery.

VII. Quick Pro Summary

\- Lower debt (GME)

\- SEC extensively and exclusively covered GME and the SEC report clearly states that January 2021 events were not a short squeeze or gamma squeeze, only buying pressure as retail sentiment picked up. This was while 80% of trades were internalized (GME)

\- Longer time spent shorting the company (GME)

\- Higher reported short interest of GME

\- Potentially self-catalyzing through inherent increase in value over time (GME)

\- Lower float (GME)

\- Gaming market has a substantially greater market cap than the popcorn industry + movie theater industry combined and is growing at a higher rate year over year. Also, lots of niche sectors for GameStop to tap into (GME)

\- GME is entering all things Web3 related and may become a key player in the Web3 Gaming, NFT (digital collectibles), NFT Marketplace, Metaverse space (GME)

\- Hiring C Suite Execs (GME)

\- More ownership and float locked per dollar (GME)

\- Less insider selling (GME)

\- More social media interaction on Twitter (Popcorn Stock) \**Some of these could be bots\**

\- More communicative CEO (Popcorn Stock)

\- More MSM support such as Melissa Lee, Charles Payne, etc (Popcorn Stock)

Apologies for using the term Popcorn stock as the filters on subs like to be. FUN.