Unpopular Opinion:

We know the DD. We have GME.fyi

GameStop is a company that will prosper. Us, we will get the reward we want eventually.

New DD is appreciated. Purple rings are appreciated and needed. But this entire thing where we share EVERY new thing that comes out that can help the company, IMO is used against us.

HF and banks have full access to the same gme.fyi that we do. They know our weak points and what can cause the event we are waiting for. That's why they are always prepared.

My point is, news like "RC WILL REVIVE BLOCKBUSTER AND NFT AND THIS AND THAT" just helps HFs know where we'll strike them next. Now they'll make sure to build a fortress to defend out attack. Just like with the split. I understand that it's a big move and we had to know, but what we know HFs also know.

It's such an awkward position to be in. I'm not FUDding around, just brainstorming. Personally (note the word personally), I wouldn't mind if only approved users could post to GME Subs with new DD and maybe an announcement every now and then. The DD is there, we know what's up, I personally don't worry or sometimes don't even check the price and the news. I trust RC and DFV.

Too much freedom of speech hurts us because we share things that shouldn't be shared. But that's only my opinion, don't start spamming how I'm a shil, I have DRSED so many shares.

What's your opinion? I'll go to sleep and check your replies tomorrow before work. Peace
