Forgive me if I'm being stupid...

Doesn't this mean shitty brokers will have more shares after the 'split' and won't they try to NOT to give them to the 'rightful owners' (or at least delay giving them out as long as possible) allowing them to:

- 1) try to drop the price immediately,
- 2) cover their shorts and
- 3) be able to have more power in price manipulation in the future?

If GME wanted to help 'us' wouldn't they make it so 1 share becomes 0.25?

Not fudding, just expecting to get fucked every time SHF get an opportunity.

Will brokers like etoro really pass these new shares to the 'rightful owners'? Why would they if they don't have to and can use this to their advantage?

Won't SHF just buy lots of shares before the split to make sure they get the most new 'free' shares? And then then 'sell' them the next day!

DRS is great, but what about those that haven't yet or couldn't/can't?

Also what action can a normal member of the public take to get their 3 extra shares (per share) that they ARE entitled to?

If people must take action to claim the extra 3 shares, how many actually will, especially if there is a fee?

Educate me please!!
