Kinda basically the title

We see no price movement pressure since it's all done via brokerage IOUs, right?

So now that we're DRSing near full accounts (or many are, myself included) doesn't that also contain the factor we must respect that is: "Any sell done of a DRS reduces our upwards movement in price?"

In earlier DDs there were things discussed as selling plans we could follow, selling 5% of shares at set price points or whatever you decide. But again, wouldn't any sell of DRS shares at any price hurt us?

If that makes sense :)

(Not FUD, swear, just a question!)
