I am, how you say, jacked by all of these news outlets reporting on GME's NFT marketplace. It's obviously some MSM bullshit to cover up for christ knows what, but I'm jacked because it means they're running out of options and time.

They would never take the risk of using this as a cover story if they didn't have to. Validate all of the reddit hype and risk FOMO? Don't think so. These dipshits had to come up with some story for why we ran +30% in AH, and the most plausible shit they could come up with was something that proves what we've been saying all along.

The only reasons I can think of that they would play it this way are to somewhat retain credibility for a ridiculous rise in price, and to take the wind out of GameStop's sails for the real announcement. If someone else has a plausible reason I'm curious to hear it but I, for one, am jazzed.

This is a drastic move. They are scared and they should be.

DRS YOUR SHARES IF YOU THINK THAT'S RIGHT FOR YOU. IDK YOU I'M JUST A GUY ON THE INTERNET BUT I STRONGLY ENCOURAGE IT IF YOU THINK THAT'S WHAT'S BEST FOR YOUR INDIVIDUAL SITUATION.
