Is_self: False

I just want to preface this post with saying that nothing below is financial advice, this is more analysis and gathering of information. Now, lets begin.

There's so much going on this week that this might be a longer post than expected. From crypto to bank earning calls, there's plenty to discuss.

Glossary

1. GME NFT Launch
2. TA traders getting in on the action
3. Media picking up on GME and market conditions
4. Banks earning calls
5. SPY topping out?

1. GME NFT Launch

This is a pretty interesting subject, especially with the tweets from the head of blockchain at GME.

Here is the tweet:

Alone this tweet is pretty odd, BUT I think there's some things that we can comprehend through the wording. I think that the tweet solely clarifies WHY the 14th was chosen date wise. Because it was in anticipation for the next E T H upgrade. There's a lot of things that we can question based off of it..

1. IF the date didnt change to 8/4, would GME even be able to use the update right away? I haven't checked the launch times of EIP-1559 and the NFT, but that could be a big clue.
2. Has the launch date of the Gamestop NFT changed? Is it still 7/14? I dont see why it would change...
3. The upgrade has been pushed back numerous times already, I think GME anticipated it could be set back once again, thus another reason why the date wouldn't change.

Would love some clarification on any of those questions! Appreciate any potential replies, and will definitely add to them.

2. TA traders getting in on the action

Technical Analysis is something that GME didn't necessarily have a lot of the times the last couple months. Of course, the fundamentals were there, BUT the chart would say an entirely different thing. I'm struggling to find the articles, BUT I think if you're a constant lurker of numerous of these sub-reddits, I'm sure you've seen them. That meme stocks are forming cups and all the technical analysis is looking stupid high for the next week/s. An obvious thing about people jumping in on a stock will usually most definitely pump the price. A runup is most definitely imminent.

3. Media picking up on GME and Market Conditions

There is no limit of "Get Out Of GME" articles, BUT there is a very limited amount of articles that reveal the truth about the market, and the potential of GME. When the tides turn, we will know. When the end is near, MSM will make it obvious.

A 2008 bubble? What lead to that... Ohhh yeah a market crash, nice.

Ahh interesting, so meme stocks are wary of another flare up. It seems so are they. These are just a few examples of the MSM narrative potentially changing, BUT let's not forget, MSM works as a company, and they have shareholders to please. They will run whatever story pleases upstairs and the audience.

4. Banks Earning Calls

This upcoming week a large majority of publicly traded banks have their earnings call. This informs the investors how their company is doing and how profitable the bank has been the most recent quarter.

Here are the banks and when they have earnings:

Wells Fargo: 7/14 Pre-Market

Citigroup: 7/14 Pre-Market

Us Bank: 7/15 Pre-Market

Goldman Sachs: 7/13 Pre-Market

Bank of America: 7/14 Pre-Market

Morgan Stanley: 7/15 Pre-Market

JP Morgan Chase: 7/13 Pre-Market

Lots of stuff going on, could potentially show some flaws in the banks. Another thing regarding the banks, how they have most mysteriously been on the decline the last month, gradually, but still. No coincidences.

5. SPY Topping Out

There's been numerous speculation and analysis of where exactly the top is for the SPY, but it has been hitting all-time highs. There was an article of someone predicting the SPY to peak between $4256-$4600 before a correction or market crash. Whether or not that is true, we will see.

6. Conclusions

Overall there's a lot of stuff happening this next week and for anyone to know exactly what will happen is bull. Nobody knows, everything is speculation with theories that may or may not hold water.

This is another post about the upcoming week:

May the tendies come and the haters be proven wrong. Everything is connected and there are no coincidences. Feel free to comment and let's work some theories out. Thanks all, have a great rest of your weekend.
