Maybe this has already been answered, so I apologize beforehand!

So I have about $500 to spend and I'm in a bit of a dilemma whether I should buy 3-4 shares of GME before the dividend, or buy them afterwards?

I know it probably doesn't matter TOO much, and we can't predict the market... but what if, after the dividends are handed out, price drops to like $18/share.. It would be well worth to buy afterwards...

On the flip, what if the price drastically rises? Lol

I could do like, 2 shares before dividend, and the rest afterwards? I'm just not sure which is the safest decision.

Not looking for financial advice, just general advice from more experienced people is all I guess.. thanks apes!
