

Title: PSA - Your broker most likely cancelled any conditional limit sell orders you had setup while processing the split for your shares. Double check, and be sure to re-add them if so.

I was buying some GME this morning which were promptly filled. I noticed that on my orders screen on TDA they had cancelled my conditional limit sells which were set to trigger at pretty high numbers (millions) and good until November.

I don't know if this is fuckery or just how they do things when a stock goes through a split, but they were definitely cancelled. I'll be re-adding them back shortly.

Keep an eye out for any other things your brokerage may have fucked with, if you're not 100% DRS'd like I am not.

Happy Friday fam
