Tuesday of this week I DRSed X shares of Gme. well those X shares from Tuesday are still showing up in my account today. While I was on the phone with the agent today DRSing another X shares I asked him why? So basically he said the agent from Tuesday had put in a delayed transaction and it was showing that it hadn't gone through until Thursday. Im like wtf is that even? By the end of the phone call he said they had from 3-5 bus days to send them over to Computershare. Said it could be till next Wednesday till they get them, that is not what Ive experienced on my other DRS transactions. Can anyone else comment or tell me im wearing tin foil?
