

Title: Elon weighs in on new SEC rule...

Author: disoriented_llama

Created 2022-02-25 22:45:55 UTC

Permalink: /r/TheGloryHodl/comments/t1gsav/elon_weighs_in_on_new_sec_rule/

Url: https://i.redd.it/m5psae7g52k81.jpg

Tweet

Dave Lauer  @dlauer · 6h

SEC just proposed a new rule requiring short position disclosure and a modification to CAT reporting of buy-to-close orders.

We'll have a full breakdown of this proposal and information on how to write comment letters ready for next week. Stay tuned!!

sec.gov/rules/proposed...

49

284

1,562

Dave Lauer  @dlauer · 6h

The rule would require institutional asset managers to disclose gross short positions to the SEC, and would result in public disclosure of aggregate short positions by the SEC on a per-security basis. It's a great step forward, but we'll have some thoughts on commenting for it.

22

91

830

Elon Musk  @elonmusk · 5m

Would be a good move. Needs to include put options & synthetic shorts.

83

225

739

