

Title: Thought I'd have a go at 'reporting'. Info from sources familiar with the situation obviously
Author: HeRdERay
Created 2022-01-12 02:29:09 UTC
Permalink: /r/GME/comments/s1utpq/thought_id_have_a_go_at_reporting_info_from/
Url: https://i.redd.it/903768tc46b81.jpg

The screenshot shows a MarketWatch article page. The header includes the MarketWatch logo and navigation links like 'Latest', 'Watchlist', 'Markets', 'Investing', 'Personal Finance', 'Economy', 'Real Estate', 'How to Invest', and 'More'. The breadcrumb trail reads 'Home > Industries > Banking/Credit'. The main headline is 'Following 2021's issuance of BBB Bonds by Citadel LLC, another Citadel entity is recipient of additional outside investment', published on Jan. 11, 2022 at 8:25 a.m. ET. The author is 'Ape', with social media icons for Twitter, Facebook, LinkedIn, and YouTube. The article text states that Citadel Securities is poised to receive its first round of outside investment, with a capital infusion of $1.15 billion from Sequoia Capital and Paradigm, as reported by The Wall Street Journal. It mentions that Ken Griffin's Citadel Securities was recently fined for allegedly violating FINRA rules in 2021 and 2020, and is looking to enter a crowded Crypto market. A mouse cursor points to a paragraph discussing Citadel Advisors and Griffin's recent tightening of investment rules. The right sidebar contains a 'Partner Center' with placeholder images and a 'Most Popular' section with three featured articles: 'She has no life insurance, savings money', 'Cathie Wood is expecting a blood in this segment of the market', and 'A 27-year-old truck driver just became Robinhood's first big headache of 2022'.

MarketWatch

Home > Industries > Banking/Credit

Following 2021's issuance of BBB Bonds by Citadel LLC, another Citadel entity is recipient of additional outside investment

Published: Jan. 11, 2022 at 8:25 a.m. ET

Ape

Citadel Securities is poised to receive its first round of outside investment, with a capital infusion of $1.15 billion from Sequoia Capital and Paradigm, The Wall Street Journal reported on Tuesday.

This move sees Ken Griffin's Citadel Securities, recently fined for allegedly violating FINRA rules in 2021, and 2020, go out to the markets for substantial financial investment. Citadel is also looking to enter a crowded Crypto market, with a potential Loopring, Gamestop Marketplace already lightyears ahead of the new entrant. A Citadel Securities spokesperson did not respond to a request for comment on its intentions in crypto.

This is on top of Citadel Advisors (separate from Citadel Securities, although owned by Griffin), recent tightening of its investment rules; Griffin, who famously spoke of fighting to survive each day when talking about the 2008 Market Crash, has seen his private jets fly worldwide recently. Does this lack of comment and new external investment indicate that things are looking rocky for this big player?

More On MarketWatch

- Baron's: GameStop Stock and Crypto Rebounded From Heavy Losses Monday
- Intel names new CFO and lead PC executive, stock gains in late trading

Partner Center

Most Popular

"She has no life insurance, savings money": My brother leaving his wife w/ $20,000 in debt. How can I help her?

Cathie Wood is expecting a blood in this segment of the market: 'autos are an example of...many disturbances out the world order'

A 27-year-old truck driver just became Robinhood's first big headache of 2022

Will you outlive your savings?