I can't seem to ever get the right search terms on these subs to find old posts I like. This one was essentially when we found that big fund X owned like 20% of fund Y and then fund Y in return owned like 10% of fund X and then some smart sounding guy (might have been an ape) drew it out and explained it.

I remember what I need from it, but I really suck at explaining it so I was hoping to find it

On that note, anyone got a good idea for how to archive a lot of posts simply without using reddit saving feature?

Lol apparently I need GME / Ryan Cohen / GameStop in the body of the text
