On one hand I'm on board with moving shares over and I encourage everyone (especially you US apes) to do so. On the other hand, the process for Canadian apes just seems annoying. I personally use Questrade and it appears there's multiple steps involved and could take 10-15 business days to complete. What if MOASS kicks off while my shares are in limbo? As well, does it make sense for me to move my shares from my TFSA over to a US transfer agent? Someone talk some sense into me please!
