

Title: Where to report Robinhood for cost basis violations?

Author: CanWeJustTalkAboutIt

Created 2022-01-14 18:14:51 UTC

Permalink: /r/GME/comments/s3yu69/where_to_report_robinhood_for_cost_basis/

Url: https://www.reddit.com/r/GME/comments/s3yu69/where_to_report_robinhood_for_cost_basis/

Howdy ape fam, would love some assistance with this and thanks in advance for helping me try to maintain some accountability.

I transferred my GME shares out of Robinhood last March to Vanguard, then transferred some of these shares to Fidelity to then DRS with Computershare. Turns out Robinhood sent ZERO cost basis information to Vanguard with the transfer, and they are taking their sweet time with no ETA on when that info will be sent to Vanguard (which then has to forward that info on to Fidelity and Computershare).

Also, since these were the first GME shares I bought, when I asked Vanguard to direct register via LIFO, it appears they did not and used FIFO instead since it seems some of the shares lacking cost basis info wound up at Computershare.

Does anyone have any info, or can point me in the direction of, rules/laws to cite when I send my next email to Robinhood, and is there any way to recover the LIFO/FIFO mess up Vanguard did? I will definitely report these to the appropriate regulatory organizations. I hate that this has to happen on the phone, so of course I have no paper trail that I indeed said LIFO and had the agent repeat it back to me.

Many thanks to all the wrinkle brains out there for the assist, and I hope this helps other smooth brains who might be in a similar situation. Much love.

Edit: Forgot I used Vanguard and not Fidelity for DRS.