This is straight from FINRA so take it with whatever grain of salt you want or not. Exercising your options is the only way that I see but I am but a humble OG Retard. Options can push the price but if not exercised they seem pointless and a way to build you up and then rip you to shreds when they drop below max pain.

Here is what I found on the interwebs using my typy finky things and smooove brain:

What is assignment?

An option assignment represents **the seller's obligation to fulfill the terms of the contract by either selling or buying the underlying security at the exercise price**. This obligation is triggered when the buyer of an option contract exercises their right to buy or sell the underlying security.

With love,

Your friendly neighborhood puddle pirate.
