\*Please let me know mods if I need to change anything.

I'm a simple ape that ate some mushrooms one day and had dreams of going to the moon. My two investments reflect as much. I really want more GME though, so I considered moving all of my other investment into GME this evening (never have sold a share of either). Now I need apes with more wrinkles to let me know if I'm just seeing patterns that don't really exist...

I don't understand stonks or anything, so maybe this means nothing, but this other stonk seems to be hitting low points with GME, but hasn't sneezed with GME since 9/5/2021. This other stonk also only came to NYSE American on 8/5/2021, so both graphs below are from then until today.

As you can see, both stonks bottom out on 8/19/2021. Both then peak on 8/31/2021 and again on 9/5/2021. But then only GME sneezes on 11/22/2021. Low points continue to trace essentially to the day for months, and then GME sneezes on its own again on 3/28/2022. Finally, both stonks bottom out on 5/11/2022.

Previously I realized this other stonk was likely a prime target for shorts (though everything shows like no short interest) since it's a new high risk company that has no chance to make money for years (yes, I eat crayons and like the stonk). So I looked at its institutional owners and I saw the usual suspects - Citadel (recently sold out, but was one of top couple holders), Susquehanna, and Jane Street Group.

Sorry if this is stupid or violates any rules. Thought maybe useful to someone with more squishy wrinkles.

Also- I tried to DRS this other stonk too, cause why diamond hand and not DRS, but FUDelity told me that the computer said it wasn't allowed. Feel free to DM me any advice. I've brought this up in other subreddits, but instantly get downvoted like crazy. Thanks y'all.
