I haven't seen any postings yet about what happens after you sell some of your shares from CS. Is a CS account just like another brokerage account? I'm curious on how you transfer your money back to its original trading account. I just started my first transfer last night, so maybe there's something regarding this when you actually set up your CS account, but I was wondering if others who have already DRS'd their shares have some answers or info on this to hold me over until I get my CS account all set up. Any info would be appreciated!
