I haven't noticed any posts discussing BCG's relationship with local school systems and I wanted to post this very interesting article I just found in the hopes that it may be a good starting point for a little deeper dive by other apes. While this article was written back in 2016, it includes some research of it's own and gives us a local perspective of the concern about the selection of BCG as well as it's activities in multiple school systems.

It seems another Ape has gone down this rabbit hole as well.
