

Title: FTDs for $BBBY and Friday's late price action.

Author: TheLunarnautics

Created 2022-04-23 17:01:52 UTC

Permalink: /r/Autisticats/comments/ua9v3o/ftds_for_bbby_and_fridays_late_price_action/

Url: /r/FWFBThinkTank/comments/ua8ivf/ftds_for_bbby_and_fridays_late_price_action/

Linked Post Content:

On Friday, about 30 minutes before stock market close, $BBBY went from having a flat and boring day to being halted out of nowhere. The cause was a big block purchase of around 1M shares, causing the stock price to jump 10% and halt.

News came out shortly after with rumors of Buy Buy Baby being of interest to a couple entities for purchase. Was this news enough to warrant someone seeing it and immediately purchasing $16M worth of stock? I think the news is cover for something else. Obligations.

This all reminds me of January 6th when out of nowhere $GME ran up almost 50% AH on news of the NFT marketplace. Not company news. But a small outfit 'leaking' some news that everyone who had done any research was already aware of.

I'm hoping to have some conversation around this. I know /u/Turdfurg23 and /u/bobsmith808 collects the FTD data for $GME but does anyone track $BBBY? I'd be curious to see if we can relate known obligations due around January 6 for GME and do the same for April 22 for BBBY.

I know /u/Gherkinit has mentioned FTDs fro RC's buyin being due Friday and Monday. What are the actuals and how much left to cover is there?