Ken Griffin is blaming us for Melvin Capitals closure and says government stimulus checks also helped fuel the situation (who knew investing in stocks doesn't stimulate the economy). And not only is Melvin closing, but WE are taking money out of teachers pensions.

Think about this..... All we have done is buy and hold. That's it. And that broke the system? Enough for a multi billion dollar hedge fund to have to close its doors?

I'm not sure, but if lots of people buying a stock and refusing to sell can cause this much damage, it would seem the hedge funds either don't know what they are doing, or they have been doing things completely wrong (and probably illegally).

GME is not to blame for this, we are just the ones they NEED to blame to make themselves look and feel better. We are the scapegoat, and we have always known we would be. But I don't think any of us care at this point, either.

As far as I'm concerned, all I'm doing is buying a stock from a company that I love and I'm refusing to sell it. I thought that's how stocks work? It's just an investment in what I believe in. I'm not sure how that is seen as wrong.

I can't wait for this to all be over so we can have some reform and hopefully enjoy a fair market after this one collapses.
