As the title says. We are shopping at a near 50% discount compared to our average share price. (Can't find the source for 175 being the average share price for all holder at the moment, someone please link in comments).

This should be tempting for most people to get in on and I, for one, added 15 more shares to my xxx position today @ 92$. I think apes could easily be loading up 1 million more GME shares during today's trading. That would equal 1,3% of shares outstanding, or 2,59% of the float!

During these days when the stock have hovered around 100$ a piece it is hard to see our share accumulation be anything other than astronomical. Mind you there's a continued sentiment at 7:1 buy/sell on Fidelity. Let the purple circles commence and buy at Computershare, if you can!

Protip for anyone that can afford it and are allowed to do so: Take your holiday pay out early and invest it for an even better vacation. Right now my outstanding holiday pay equals 74 shares! This is not financial advice and I am as stupid as they come. I do however think this is the play of the year for me so I'm all in and since it's still covid I'll be having my vacation at home.

Tinfoil: 74 shares for 1 vacation. This is a sign. Can't go tits up!
