

Title: The only way I will ever sell my GME shares is if I can do it for ETH or LRC on GameStop's NFT marketplace.

Author: TexasFight420

Created 2022-06-15 05:23:35 UTC

Permalink: /r/GME/comments/vcn1f0/the_only_way_i_will_ever_sell_my_gme_shares_is_if/

Url:

https://www.reddit.com/r/GME/comments/vcn1f0/the\_only\_way\_i\_will\_ever\_sell\_my\_gme\_shares\_is\_if/

Disclaimer: These are my own personal thoughts as a GME shareholder. This is not financial advice.

I have been investing in GameStop for a long time now. I personally chose to DRS over 99% of my shares with ComputerShare, leaving behind a single share in my brokerage account. I use this share as a canary in the coal mine for any fuckery. If my brokerage ever sells this share without my direction, I will take full legal action to make sure I am made whole along with any others that they took advantage of.

If a stock dividend were confirmed, I think it would be cool if those shares could somehow be issued on the GameStop NFT marketplace instead of the traditional exchanges and dark pools. If my shares were on an NFT marketplace, I could use fiat off ramps if I ever needed the cash.

But that's the thing. I don't want USD. This whole GameStop saga has shown me I don't want any part of this system they've built. I want a decentralized blockchain I can trust. If there was a way to sell a security on GameStop's NFT marketplace, I would consider selling a single GME share for 69,420ETH and holding on tight to the rest. You could even verify this on the blockchain and know that what I said and what I did was consistent and true.

The Fed is printing dollars so freely. So what I really want to know is, "When will I be able to exchange my GameStop shares for crypto currency?"