Sent my GME to Computershare a while ago, but didn't realize that this subreddit had looser posting restrictions than Superstonk. I tried to post my DRS earlier, but I got an email that said it was auto-removed because my post was too short. It's been long enough since I DRSeD my shares that I actually just sent another batch of GME over to Computershare a couple of days ago. I did get transferred on the call, but otherwise it seemed to go as smooth as the first time. They said something like "I assume you want the confirmation #". They know we know what's up. Thanks for all the DD everyone! It's going to change markets. Okay, hopefully this post is long enough now that it doesn't get auto-deleted.
