

Title: Caveat Emptor; Did Fidelity cheat its own client out of millions of dollars?

Author: SallysValleyPizzaSux

Created 2022-08-08 02:43:39 UTC

Permalink: /r/GME/comments/wixet4/caveat_emptor_did_fidelity_cheat_its_own_client/

Url: https://www.reddit.com/r/GME/comments/wixet4/caveat_emptor_did_fidelity_cheat_its_own_client/

Concerned about holding your GameStop shares with your broker?

Concerned that your non-margin shares are being lent out without your knowledge and wishes?

Concerned that your broker could be using YOUR OWN shares to take or allow others to take a position AGAINST your own and your own self-interest?

Concerned about accidental or purposeful Naked Short Selling being used to devalue your position?

Concerned that the current share splividend situation could end you and GameStop up in years and years of arbitration and court battles, EVEN with SEC, FINRA, and (possibly) Treasury involvement?

If not, YOU SHOULD BE!

Hello friends, and welcome to the sordid tale "Wine mogul Peter Deutsch is seeking as much as $500 million in damages from Fudelity for a bad investment in one Chinese stock."

This is the tale of Fudelity hand-courting whale investor Peter Deutsch into investing with Fudelity's Family Office Service, and allegedly using Mr. Deutsch's Fully Funded (i.e. non-margin) Shares against his will and CONTRARY to his explicit direction.

This allegedly cost Mr. Deutsch $400-500 MILLION.

As of four years later (article dated April 2016) than Fudelity's actions which occurred in 2012, resolution still had not occurred.

Marking this as "DD", not for my post, but because reading the article is a level of personal Due Diligence YOU should perform to understand what can and does happen within the internal confines of brokers.

Buckle up, this is a hell of a tale:

(apparently, r/GME doesn't allow Fudelity to be named properly in posts, even in links. ■■)

As such, link will be provided in the comments.)