Hi everybody,

I've been researching, reading DD, doing my own research on the side and also writing my own DD for over a year now.

For a while I've been trying to educate people about all different angles of this saga.

There is a clear need for a tool that is clear, easy to understand and simple for the ignorant mass to find out about the brokers, market makers, hedgefunds and DTCC scam.

I'm a mechanical engineer with process and project management background, I've worked in many projects and this will be executed with the highest quality.

This is something is obviously needed, I haven't seen an actual approach designed for the mass, I created a "for dummies version of GME" but I'm either getting shadowbanned or buried after a few thousands votes.

Let's go to the idea of how to do it.

(I'm open to new idea and in the future to provide different angles of this.)

The idea:

The initial idea includes a whiteboard animation video (eventually to turn into a series of videos each explaining a bit of the situation).

The approach of this video will be to explain easily to the mass how the brokers make money (in the current stock market), then will explain how are the market makers functioning and making money.

Basically this initial video will target this situation from a different angle, showing how brokers and market makers make money with retail/pensions money.

Explained in a easy way (I'm really good at that) and pointing out clearly where and when is retail getting scammed and how is the stock manipulated in the biggest and most obvious way so the mass get encouraged to dig.

This video can be shared and also made into a website to help sources like drsgme website and create a new website with the series of videos.

The video will be uploaded on every platform, will also be sent to main stream media and it's gonna be so clear and easy to understand that there won't be ways to misunderstand the information.

Mostly talking about how brokers and market makers are making money using retail so people get aware. The example used in this video will be GME, next videos will be more focused in GME directly and to focus the masses in how to solve the problem.

Why I'm unable to do it?

Well I'm not an animator or a whiteboard animator. Ideally I would like to start with the first version of this project to be whiteboard. I'm open to other ways such animation, 3D animation, frame by frame and whatever possible to bring this so needed and important message.

I don't have resources to do this. I'm very intelligent and right now loving day by day.
If someone that have some extra to spare and see this project as important as I see it and want to help, please let do it!

If the community or mods want to crowdfund it it would be amazing since this is long needed.

I'm tired of seeing mediocre attempts for websites and explainers of this situation, I feel I'm ready, qualified and informed enough to do this, I just need some help.

Thanks for your time reading this message.

Happy to hear feedback and other ideas, support and resources.
