

Title: ■A story about some diamonds■

Author: FeliciusFlamel

Created 2022-02-01 15:12:40 UTC

Permalink: /r/GME/comments/shx9h2/a_story_about_some_diamonds/

Url: https://www.reddit.com/r/GME/comments/shx9h2/a_story_about_some_diamonds/

Alright sit down and listen dum dum, your brain's smooth but mine's smoother.

rusty old man voice

In another world there existed only ■72 million diamonds, already polished and cutted, stored away. The companies who sold 'em had a hell a cash stashing around, because business was boomin' and everybody wanted a piece of.

Truth is, some of 'em had a dirty little secret ya see, these people who bought the diamonds mostly never get to see them. They had a paper with a picture of it as evidence to prove they own it.

Because of that, they start lending the diamonds out to ass sucking criminals. The lent diamonds ■ sold to the people who already owned them. I spit on ma face if you ask me.

Those criminals got greedy over the time, they started to create their own papers with pictures of diamonds and sold these. The people didn't know that they didn't had a real one only a piece of paper.

Normally their was a guy who took a look or two on the business, his name was Sec but let's call him Sic, because most of the time he didn't do shit.

Ya see if Sic saw something illegal happenin' he wrote a fine so small he could roll it up and impregnate himself.

Sorry, back to the story...

So Sic wrotes a fine and just looks away, going home taking a shit and these criminals get away with it, because the people didn't think.

Think lad, think.

What would ya do? You would go to the diamond companies with your paper and claim your real diamond before everybody else it does. They have to give it to the people if they demand it, I mean they have the papers and own it.

They have to turn the papers in their hands into real diamonds. ■■

Thanks for listening

■ cheers ■

P.S. Gamestop